Star Tribune Names Health Dimensions Group a 2023 Top Workplace

MINNEAPOLIS (June 19, 2023)– Health Dimensions Group® (HDG®), a leading senior living, post-acute, and long-term care management and consulting organization has been named a 2023 National Standard Top Workplace by the Star Tribune for the second consecutive year.

Founded more than 20 years ago, the values-based organization’s experience includes work with over 900 clients in all 50 states, including the management and oversight of 53 senior living and care communities in nine states, serving approximately 2,600 residents and 2,000 team members.

Produced by the same team that compiles the 32-year-old Star Tribune 100 report of the best-performing public companies in Minnesota, Top Workplaces recognizes the most progressive companies in Minnesota and across the nation based on employee opinions measuring engagement, organizational health, and satisfaction. The National Standard award is given to organizations which rank above national benchmarks.

The analysis included responses from 124,719 employees at Minnesota public, private and nonprofit organizations. The list is based solely on employee feedback gathered through a third-party survey administered by research partner Energage, LLC, a leading provider of technology-based employee engagement tools.

As part of the survey, HDG employees were asked to describe the company culture. Values-driven, supportive, and respectful were among the top responses. HDG team members also gave the company high marks for its welcoming environment and growth opportunities.

“We are honored to be recognized as a National Standard Top Workplace by the Star Tribune for the second year in a row,” said Erin Shvetzoff Hennessey, Chief Executive Officer of Health Dimensions Group. “This honor is even more rewarding as the senior care industry continues to face significant workforce challenges. We are grateful to our amazing team members who rated us highly and are the reason we earned this distinction.”

Amber Rogotzke, President of Health Dimensions Group, added, “At HDG, we pride ourselves on our ability to attract some of the industry’s leading thought leaders and talent. This award will help us to continue to recruit highly skilled individuals and further our mission to make lives better by providing quality care, service, and consulting.”

Star Tribune CEO and Publisher Steve Grove said, “The companies in the Star Tribune Top Workplaces deserve high praise for creating the very best work environments in the state of Minnesota. My congratulations to each of these exceptional companies.”
